The following speakers connected through the online webinar or teleconference service in response to the proposed zoning bylaw amendment:

Eric Low, #1506-2378 Alpha Avenue, Burnaby, expressed concerns with the train noise. The speaker inquired if there are any plans to deal with the noise, i.e. sound barrier/wall along the railway.

Staff advised that the City is working with the Vancouver Port Authority (VPA) and Canadian National Railway (CN) on several projects, and has recommended mitigation measures along the developments (i.e. sound barriers, grinding tracks more frequently to avoid the noise, etc.) to VPA and CN.

Johneen McElroy, #2403 -2378 Alpha Avenue, Burnaby, inquired if Alaska Street will connect to Beta Avenue. The speaker further inquired regarding noise mitigation measures, increased number of train tracks and train traffic.

Staff advised that Alaska Street will connect to Beta Avenue in the future; however, further land acquisition would be required. In regards to the train noise, the City is working with the VPA and CN to address noise concerns; however, the City does not have any jurisdiction over the train tracks as they are federally regulated. Staff encouraged residents to participate in the Port Authority's consultation process and provide feedback through their website.
