Hi Mayor Hurley,

I hope you and your family are doing well and staying safe. My name is Jackson and I am a fellow City of Burnaby employee mainly working in the parks and recreation department. In case it's been forgotten, a few months ago we talked about some issues surrounding homelessness. Well I'm here again today, but this time I'm here to ask and discuss something else.

I am currently a BC/TOR regional coordinator with Project Northern Lights, a non-profit organization dedicated to serving the community by creating and gathering various PPE to donate to communities and healthcare centers in need. You can check us out here with this link: <https://projectnorthernlights.ca/>

At this time, I am wondering if the City of Burnaby has any spare PPE (masks, gowns, faceshields, gloves...etc) they are able to donate to Project Northern Lights. There are a few cities within the province that are in need of PPE and acquiring these locally would be the most efficient way to go. Having worked at the warming centers, I understand the importance of having PPE, and there have been times where there were shortages of a few equipment which could've resulted in severe consequences.

Overall, I am wondering if the City of Burnaby is able to donate any PPE to communities throughout the province. Every little bit counts. I would be very grateful if the city does have extras, as that would provide many patrons and workers with a sense of comfort. Thank you very much for your time Mayor Hurley and I look forward to hearing from you soon.
