Notes and Definitions

The statistical data in this report is extracted from PRIME – BC. The data included in this report represent “actual offences” only (i.e.: those incidents which upon preliminary investigation have been deemed to have occurred or been attempted). This data also does not include or infer the number of charges laid, prosecutions conducted, information sworn or convictions obtained.

Prior to 2019, incidents of crime that were reported but could not be proven to have occurred when followed up by the police were considered to be “unfounded” and were subtracted from the number of reported offence to produce the number of actual offences.

As of January 2019, founded occurrences include offences where it has been determined that the reported incident did occur or was attempted, or there was no credible evidence to confirm that the incident did not take place. Prior to 2019, only offences that were proven to have occurred were included in founded occurrences. This change in reporting may result in an increase when comparing 2019 founded occurrences with reports from previous years.

Data contained in this report is also based on accumulated-to-date information. The data presented here may vary from previously produced reports and number may continue to change due to the dynamic nature of offences being reported and cleared.

The crime data in this report (i.e.: number of offences) utilizes the UCR Survey to collect aggregate data on the incidence of crime. The UCR Survey uses the most serious offence (MSO) rule when compiling police-reported crime data. The MSO rule stipulates that where a single criminal incident contains a number of violations of the law, only the most serious one is recorded for UCR purposes. As a result, the total number of UCR offences does not represent the total of all crime reported by police (i.e.: the UCR Survey tends to underestimate the true incidence of relatively less serious crimes).

For the purposes of this report, offences have been divided into 5 major categories: Crimes Against Persons, Offences Against Property, Other Criminal Code Offences, Controlled Drugs and Substances Act and Traffic. Aside from the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, no other federal statutes such as the Customs Act or the Canada Shipping Act were included. The Traffic category includes collisions and impaired driving investigations but does not include municipal traffic infractions or other by-law infractions.

- Crimes Against Persons – includes offences such as attempted murder, assault, sexual offences, robbery and abduction.
- Offences Against Property – includes offences such as commercial, residential and other break & enter, possession of stolen property, mischief, theft of vehicle, theft from vehicle, theft, arson and fraud.
- Other Criminal Code Offences – includes offences such as prostitution, weapons offences, trespassing, disturbing the peace, obstruction, breach, indecent acts, bail violations, escape custody, counterfeiting currency and cause disturbance.

- Traffic – includes violations such as impaired driving, Immediate Roadside Prohibitions (IRP's), roadside suspensions and collisions resulting in fatalities, injuries or damages under $10,000
